

TRAVEL SECURITY

ProACTIVE Risk MANAGEMENT

PARM

Our services are designed to provide you and your employees with the confidence that all of your security requirements have been met while in a foreign country.

With the increasing mobility of today's workforce, work-related traveling has become widespread. As their employees are traveling more and more, companies should be aware of their duty of care, the responsibility for the well-being of these employees from both a moral and legal perspective. From a security standpoint, some destinations are more dangerous than others because of political unrest, high crime rates, or natural disaster risks. However, common safety issues such as medical emergencies, injuries, and car accidents will always be present regardless of the location.

Because of this, organizations should always have their employees' safety in mind when they send them abroad, as prevention and preparation are the best ways to avoid unpleasant surprises.

ADVANCE WORK

Good travel security always starts with proper, thorough advance work. This includes itinerary review, accommodation assessments and reservations, route planning and vehicles, organization of communications, visas/passports/permits arrangements, etc.

SECURITY DETAIL

The security detail is the team that will be providing your employees with continuous protection, direction, and support. With a good knowledge of the travel destination, ability to speak the local language, and years of field experience, our agents provide a service of utmost professionalism with the desired level of visibility or discretion.

TRANSPORTATION

Navigating in foreign locations can be a stressful and hazardous experience. With the services of our trained drivers, our clients have the guarantee that all of their transportation needs are met with security and efficiency. Depending on the destination and risk level, escort vehicles can also complete the detail for additional security and peace of mind.

TRAVEL SECURITY TRAINING

Proactive Risk Management offers training for executives and security professionals alike. With our program, executives can learn emergency procedures and best practices for safety abroad, as well as develop operational security skills by experiencing different types of scenarios in a controlled simulation environment.

For more advanced needs, we have our 10-day international protection specialist training program geared towards security professionals. This intensive 10-day program consists of 5 days of training in the USA and 5 days of training in Central America, where trainees develop high-level skills in logistics, advance, tactics, and field operations. Our trainers are seasoned professionals with experience in local, state, and federal government agencies.

Travel Risks

- Unfamiliarity with location, environment, weather
- Accidents, illness, unfamiliar medical system
- Language and cultural barriers
- Legal issues and corrupt officials

Our Travel Security service provides our clients with a complete range of measures that will ensure your employees' safety while traveling abroad.

Before departure, our team of professionals will assess the risk level of the destination, identify possible threats, and develop a clear surveillance and incident response protocol suiting your needs.

During the trip, we will provide on-site security and coordinate our operations with local law enforcement and emergency service providers in order to identify threats, provide guidance, and ensure that the proper emergency response is carried out, if needed.
